Dear "To Whom It May Concern":

Just over a year ago I was laid off from a job of over 12 years. Not long after that I decided to start my own company, a full-service Internet agency.

The journey since then has been filled with ups and downs - a lot of uncertainty, questions, and doubts.

CTRG and Glen Aubrey have been a literal God-send.

Glen's extensive experience in the business world (and, especially, the self-business world), as well as client relations, leadership, and just plain common sense, has been invaluable to any level of success I've experienced in my first year.

He helped me set the course of my business with exceptional mission and purpose statements...prompted me to consider things I just hadn't seen...to consider billing methods that helped my cash flow...connected me with others to help in areas he didn't have experience in...pushed me to improve my marketing collateral and approaches...and, best, he's helping me look down the road, at what I want this business to be in the future.

My regular meetings with Glen are greatly anticipated on my part...and will continue to contribute to our growth and impact.

Sincerely,

Mike Atkinson
